

0033 01 30
Marla A. Zahn
1426 13th Avenue
Grafton, WI 53024 1940
January 10, 2001

Commissioner Jane Henney
Docket # OOP-1211/CP1
FDA Dockets Management Branch, (HFA-305)
5630 Fishers Lane, Room 1061
Rockville, MD 20852

Dear Ms. Henney:

As an organic gardener, Peace Corps date palm specialist and nutritional writer, I would like to strongly encourage you to vote no on the increase in genetically engineered foods and to stop eating them yourself. How radical of an idea is it to place the reproductive cell characteristics of a petunia into a soybean? Perhaps on paper this sounds trite just as trite as a vaccination campaign that took place in the 1950's with the Rhesus Monkey.

I am about to print this, and I thought it might raise an eyebrow or two. Denying the truth does not change it nor make it go away.

Please read the enclosed.

A WEAKENED IMMUNE SYSTEM

"The diseases are comparatively few, though some of them are acute and complicated; nevertheless those in general incidental to their modes of life, readily yield to their modes of practicing medicine; and indeed most of those for which they are indebted to their intercourse with the whites are treated with a like happy success. So that they may be said to have made greater proficiency in the healing, than in any other art or science."
John Dunn Hunter speaking of the tribes as a child captive of the late 1790's.

Health is not about arthritis, colds, headaches, allergies and skin diseases. These are merely symptoms of more serious internal malfunctions. A healthy body does not have arthritis, allergies or migraines. The objective, of course, is to understand the cause of these symptoms; once the cause is understood, the remedy need not be far behind. Health is about finding the remedy.

When the liver is clean, there are no allergies, when the intestines are working properly ninety percent of all headaches will disappear. Arthritis can be traced to nutritional deficiencies often in combination with arsenic poisoning or a spine virus. Arsenic settles in the muscles of the spine, weakening them, allowing the vertebrae, held by the muscles, to be out of place. This will feel like arthritis. A vroid in the spinal fluid will feel like it too.

¹ Hunter, John Dunn, Memoirs of a Captivity among the Indians of North America, New York, Schocken Books, 1973. P. 96

Third stages of syphilis appear to be multiple sclerosis (MS), while most kidney malfunctions are responsible for skin eruptions. Colds and flu are directly related to the excessively high bacteria and mold content. "Moldy foods have immune lowering effects which can induce thymus atrophy, displayed as low immunity, low white blood cell count, low T-cells."³

The foods consumed come from the same source, and since most eat at the same cafeteria or from the same grocery store, colds appear to be contagious. "Raw alfalfa sprouts contaminated with salmonella came from California. Radish sprouts contaminated with Listeria came from Michigan. Frozen strawberries contaminated with hepatitis A came from Mexico. Raspberries contaminated with cyclospora came from South America. Fresh parsley contaminated with shigella came from Mexico. Apple juice contaminated with E.coli came from Washington state."⁴

"Listeria bacteria [Listeria monocytogenes] infects shellfish, birds, spiders, and mammals (including cows)"⁵. And is transmitted to humans by breathing infected dust or contact with contaminated soil, contaminated dairy products, or contaminated raw vegetables. Its incubation period is two to four weeks with the most common form of listeriosis as infection of the membranes covering the brain and spinal cord, meningitis, endocarditis and the backache.

Salmonellosis thrives in animals that have been given antibiotics and sickens 5 million Americans annually, killing thousands. "Eggs and chickens are the most common sources of Salmonella bacteria. . . and 90 percent of all chickens carry Helicobacter pylori"⁶

"Staphylococcus aureus bacteria make up 25 percent of all food poisoning cases."⁷ Who gets the cold and who doesn't is based on the immune system. Who gets sick and who doesn't is based on the immune system and what you are eating.

Generally speaking, what is happening to the immune systems of the peoples of the world? If AIDS were to be properly classified as cancer of the immune system, could we not conclude that the peoples of the earth are in dire need? As I sit here writing this, the date is November 2000; the Peace Corps' literature wanting volunteers for the new program, Crisis Corps has 25 million HIV/AIDS cases in Africa alone.

² Luster, M.I., Boorman, G.A., Korach, K.S., Dieter, M.P., and Hong, L. 1984. Myelotoxicity toxicity resulting from exogenous estrogens evidence for bimodal mechanism of action. Int. J. Immunopharmacol. 6: 287-297.

³ Clark, Hulda Regehr, Ph.D., ND The Cure for all Diseases, Promotion Publishing, 1995. P 211

⁴ Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, Safety/food poisoning cases multiplying like bacteria, Health and Science, April 26, 1999.

⁵ Trenev, Natasha, Probiotics Nature's Internal Healers, New York, Avery Publishing Group, P.176

⁶ Trenev, Natasha, Probiotics Nature's Internal Healers, New York, Avery Publishing Group, P. 173

⁷ Trenev, Natasha, Probiotics Nature's Internal Healers, New York, Avery Publishing Group, P.175

Each cell has its own consciousness and communication with the cellular environment. It is an interactive system with the “brain” of the cell, the membrane, a sandwich of phospholipids and fatty acids held together by cholesterol and impregnated with proteins communicating with other “brains”. The membrane of a cell is capable of responding to all environmental stimuli including thoughts generated by the mind. Cell membranes can send messenger RNA (ribonucleic acid) to rewrite the genetic code of the genes in the cell nucleus. RNA messages are translated from genetic DNA that is used by the cell to synthesize proteins. How would you like to rewrite your genetic code? How would you like someone else to rewrite it without you knowing it?

It began with an animal, the Rhesus ape delivered to American laboratories by the truckload. Call it the age of experimentation with animals, and Darwin would surely agree monkeys are so much like us. Needles had injected their kidneys with a poliovirus designed to decompose the kidney. The apes were dying; the kidney pus was extracted, injected into eggs for the creation of the Salk vaccine. A campaign of fear was staged while children were struck with deformed legs. Neighbor children didn’t play with neighbor children. They called it polio.

In America laid upon a bed of fear, people by the masses were inoculated with the poliovirus, a virus that was already dead. And instead, received the rhesus monkey virus, called by many names, the simian immunodeficiency virus (SIV), the Sim 40 virus, Sim, Retrovirus, or 40, and later recognized within the human body as the HIV-1 and HIV-2 viruses causing AIDS.

Today the United States government admits that the monkey is the source of the AIDS virus, that the chimpanzee carries the HIV virus without ill effects unto itself. The Los Angeles Times of February 1, 1999, states that it most likely occurred during butchering of the animals, which is quite true, but then concludes with an added clause, “which were subsequently eaten.” Which surely leads one to believe Africa is the cause of this plague, because they were “eating monkey”. Which is quite untrue. What is more likely the truth rests with the vaccination campaigns of Africa.

I wasn’t ~~the~~ only one who watched that television news program in Milwaukee in the winter of 1999. Africans had such an outbreak of AIDS, because of a monkey, inferring that these chimps were biting Africans. The goal of course, is to study infected chimpanzees in the wild to find out why these animals don’t get sick from the HIV virus like us humans!

Why is it that no one is looking at that vaccine and the Rhesus monkey found in our laboratories? After all, “chimpanzees are the only nonhuman animal with a healthy immune system who can be infected with HIV- 1, the cause of most cases of AIDS. Of approximately a hundred chimpanzees infected with HIV-1 over a ten-year period, only two have become sick.”

⁸Todd, Betsy, RN, MPH, Animal Research and Aids, The Guardian Newsletter Selected articles from: Issue 15 Vol.4 – Summer 1998

To add to all of this confusion, the rhesus monkey, Macaca mulatta, is a native to India, Nepal, eastern Afghanistan, Indochina and northeastern China, not Africa! It is held sacred by the Hindus. Rhesus monkeys ascend the Himalayas in the summer. Because the Rhesus monkey is physiologically similar to humans, they have been used as research animals to such an extent that they have greatly been reduced in population and belong to an endangered species. The rhesus monkey belongs to the Cercopithecidae family. And my guess is that sacred monkeys aren't ever eaten.

So am I expected to believe that a few Macaca monkeys in Africa (when they don't live there) bit a few Africans and now we have a worldwide crisis? Or can we take a look at that Macaca monkey and conclude that in his natural make-up, he carries the HIV virus, and American laboratories introduced that virus into Africa in the name of health, and that vaccination campaign. If so, then it is merely not a case of backtracking to find out who was inoculated with the Macaca monkey vaccination?

I remember the day so clearly, the American Embassy had no beer and for some of us out in the Sahara's bush for several months at a time, that was something to look forward too . . . cold beer. With a cholera outbreak on the Senegal River the driver of the beer truck, a local Mauritanian, without shot verification papers, was not allowed to immediately reenter his country. He would have to wait 10 days after injection with the cholera vaccine. If symptoms did not appear, he would be free to reenter Mauritania.

To state it the way the Peace Corps nurse did, cholera vaccines are 30% effective therefore; none will be administered to her volunteers. Cholera, exactly what is cholera but an overburdened liver, unable to detoxify Vibrio cholerae producing the enterotoxin, cholera toxin. How is it that another chemical is to vaccinate against an already overburdened liver? I still don't understand this thinking. The point is that those who could not prove that they had been vaccinated for cholera received the shot from the "same" needle. The year was 1987.

It was my greatest fear, that I should travel and be without my shot card for I could be stopped at any entrance or exit between adjoining Mauritanian countries and injected with the same needle that was used for everyone else as they crossed borders. It is the present-day end results of our vaccination campaigns. We have passed the message along; something is better than nothing.

Simian
40

A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY

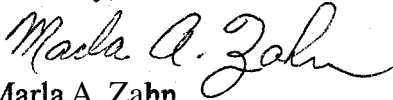

Instead of receiving the poliovirus, peoples received the Simian 40 ape virus which can lay dormant for decades hiding in the spinal fluid, and in the nervous system, awakening to strike like the unobtrusive snake. And when it does strike the nerves, it is called AIDS. There are 98 million Americans who unknowingly received the retrovirus. I am one of them, and so probably, are you.

40
SIV 40
Sim 40

Please, double check my facts.

Sincerely,

Marla A. Zahn
MAZ/mz

MAZ
1426 13th Ave
Grafton, WI 53024-1940

Commissioner Jane Henney
DOCKET #00P-1211/CPI
FDA DOCKETS Management Branch, (HFA-305)
5630 Fishers Lane, Room 1061
Rockville, MD 20852

